Mr. Fantasy Resort

Christopher Bagwell Hemmeter, 1939-2003

Christopher B. Hemmeter was one of the Aloha State's most charismatic hotel developers in the 1970s and 1980s, and his influence is perhaps nowhere more evident than at Waikoloa Beach Resort.

It was here that one of his loftiest dreams took shape: the Hyatt Regency Waikoloa. Nowadays operated as Hilton Waikoloa Village, when the sprawling 1,240-room resort opened in September 1988, it was the largest and — built at a cost of $360 million — the most expensive hotel ever built in the islands.

But Hemmeter, who passed away in 2003, was never one to think small. When you spoke with him — whether you were a bank executive considering funding one of his massive projects or a journalist writing a story — you'd listen to his vision and soon come to believe that what he was describing was not only possible, but the best thing ever. It was his gift to dream big and make you dream big right alongside him.

A resort, he said in 1990, "must create a sense of experience. People want more than a room and a bed. Today's traveler is looking for revival, for newness, for the unexpected. The impact must be greater than the sum of the many parts."

At Waikoloa, the "experience" Hemmeter sought to impart was created with a combination of art, elegance, and downright fun. Originally sketched on a cocktail napkin, plans included a lagoon where guests could swim with dolphins, a Disneyland-style monorail, boats traveling on a waterway to transport awe-struck guests to their rooms, a crashing waterfall under which one could walk, multiple swimming pools, public spaces filled with Polynesian and Asian art, and themed restaurants with authentic Italian, Chinese, Japanese, and other cuisines of the world.

Opening day dignitaries included "Hawaii" author James Michener, singers Dionne Warwick and Burt Bacharach, and business and social elites from around the state. It was one of 1988's most lavish events.

Hemmeter was known for his fantastic flair, adding dramatic architectural elements to his resorts, as well as fascinating collections of Asian and Pacific art.

and animals and unusual art. Coming to one of Hemmeter's hotels, you didn't just get a hotel but an experience."

Some critics complained that although guests got an experience, it wasn't an authentic Hawaiian experience. Jerry Hulse, then editor of the L.A. Times travel section, famously compared the Hyatt Regency Waikoloa to Disneyland. "What we have here is another Anaheim," he wrote in 1990. "All that's missing is Sleeping Beauty's Castle, a paddle wheeler and the Matterhorn."

Hemmeter, undeterred by such criticism, would always reply, "And look how successful Disneyland is."

He would also frequently point to the flamingo pink Royal Hawaiian Hotel on Waikiki Beach. "That also caused quite a stir when it first opened," he'd say. "Critics said it wasn't Hawaiian enough, and now it's the iconic hotel in Waikiki."

Hemmeter left Hawai'i in 1990 to pursue development projects on the mainland, ultimately losing much of his wealth on a failed attempt to build a supersize casino in New Orleans.

In Hawai'i, though — having built the Hyatt Regency Waikiki, the Hyatt Regency Maui, the Westin Maui, Kauai Lagoons, and the Hyatt Regency Waikoloa — his legacy stands as a visionary who contributed greatly to the tourism industry in the state. His resorts created thousands of jobs for the local communities, attracted affluent Japanese tourists, and helped fuel an economic boom in the islands.

As today's guests of Hilton Waikoloa Village can attest, they are dramatic, magnificent structures that have all stood the test of time. When asked once about the larger-than-life scale of his dreams, he boasted, "Julius Caesar never saw anything like it."

"A resort," Hemmeter said in 1990, "must create a sense of experience. People want more than a room and a bed."

"My dad was a dreamer," says Hemmeter's son, Christopher R. Hemmeter, who was given the task of procuring the art collection for the hotels. "I was just out of school, and my dad had this idea; he had seen some Chinese Imperial art when he was on a trip, and he wanted me to go to Asia to collect and commission works we could display around the resorts."

From the artisans of Bali to the bronze foundries of Bangkok to the marble quarries of Yang Ping — a small village near the Mongolian border where green, black, rose, and white marble has been carved for more than 2000 years — the Hemmeters traveled, often negotiating prices with sign language.

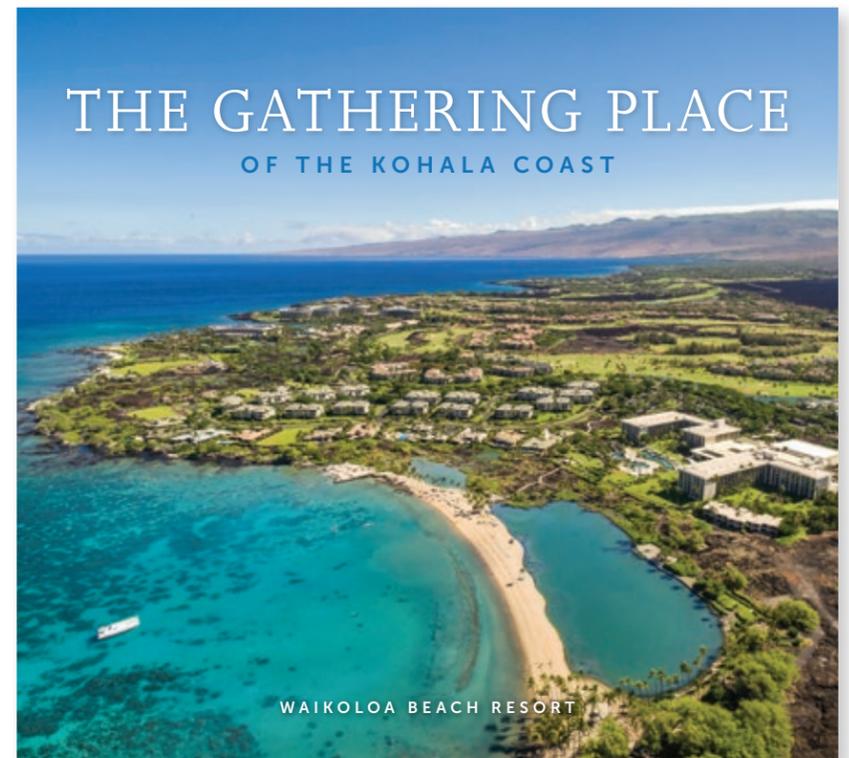

"The scale of the art was often so big," the younger Hemmeter recalls, "that it sometimes took a while to get our point across. The Chinese horses and carriage down by the meeting rooms at the Hilton, for example, is an oversized replica of a small sculpture my dad had seen. Can you imagine what it took to not only create that piece, but to transport it from Asia to Hawai'i?"

"He totally revolutionized the hotel industry here in Hawai'i," said Larry Johnson, retired chief executive of the Bank of Hawaii, upon Hemmeter's passing. "Until he started to build them, hotels were pretty generic — the rooms and lobbies all kind of looked alike. But he had waterfalls and birds

NEWS

THE GATHERING PLACE OF THE KOHALA COAST

In December, a new coffee table book on Waikoloa Beach Resort, "THE GATHERING PLACE of the Kohala Coast," was published. In thoroughly researched text and artful photography, the book details the history of the land on which the resort is built from its earliest days and follows the vision and development of the property through the present. Chapters focus on the many people whose hard work and dedication made Waikoloa the successful resort it is today, as well as the cultural, culinary, and recreational events that have been held over the years. A timeline is included, as well as fascinating details about Waikoloa Village, which was originally part of the whole plan.

PAR IN PARADISE

If there is one thing that most visitors to the Waikoloa Beach Resort know about, it's the golf courses. The resort's reputation for world-class golf has been a major draw for decades, and it's a testament to the vision and dedication of the resort's founders.

CHAPTER 5 | SPORTS

SPORT OF KINGS

"Unlike most resorts, the Waikoloa Beach Resort has always been a place where guests can enjoy a variety of recreational activities. From golf to tennis to surfing, the resort has always been a place where guests can find something to do for everyone.

CHAPTER 6 | HISTORY

FROM LAVA TO LUXURY

In 1959, the land on which the Waikoloa Beach Resort now stands was a desolate, volcanic landscape. It was a place of lava flows and rugged terrain, but it was also a place of great potential.

CHAPTER 7 | CULINARY

A CULINARY TALE

The history of the Waikoloa Beach Resort is a story of innovation and creativity. From the resort's early days as a simple vacation spot to its current status as a world-class resort, the story is one of constant evolution and growth.

Lush photography complements in-depth text detailing the history and many facets of Waikoloa Beach Resort.

18TH ANNUAL WAIKOLOA 'UKULELE FESTIVAL Saturday, March 3

Waikoloa Beach Marriott Resort & Spa

Queens' MarketPlace and Kings' Shops

We start off this festival with a very educational and fun workshop put on by world-renowned Roy Sakuma and friends at the Waikoloa Beach Marriott Resort & Spa. Beginners and longtime players of this instrument alike can learn Roy's style of 'ukulele playing. Many who have come in the past have learned a song or two which are typically performed at either of the Waikoloa Beach Resort Shopping centers.

Hawai'i's top 'ukulele entertainers headline this annual musical extravaganza at Queens' MarketPlace and Kings' Shops. Whether you are a resident or a visitor, the rhythmic sound of the 'ukulele will bring you back to a time of the beauty and magic of Old Hawai'i. The music will make you dance and be part of this once-a-year event that showcases the unique sound that is known worldwide.

KAMEHAMEHA COURT

Treat yourself to the once-in-a-lifetime cultural immersion of our lu'au at Hilton Waikoloa Village. Brought to you by Tihati Productions, the Legends of Hawai'i Luau dinner and show brings to life the ancestral songs and dances that retell the epic stories of Hawai'i Island and her remarkable people.

You'll receive a lei greeting upon arrival and have the opportunity to capture memories with photos with our lu'au performers. The buffet includes island favorites such as hulihuli chicken, seared island catch-of-the-day and the traditional imu kaula pig, and fresh daily Hawaiian style desserts.

Our signature mai tais are made with fresh pineapple juice. And we have a keiki buffet for our friends ages 12-and-under.

General seating prices are $135 plus tax for adults, $75 plus tax for children (ages 5 - 12) and children under 4 are complimentary. Upgrade to Ali'i seating ($30 + tax per person) includes premier seating, complimentary valet parking, family-style pupus and desserts tableside, exclusive butler service and gratuity.

NEW! HO'OKUPU SUNSET DINNER PACKAGE

Ho'okupu — meaning 'to cause growth' — are offerings given freely with warmth and aloha. With this generosity of spirit in mind, you can savor a customizable five-course menu with up to seven guests in a cliffside cabana, in one of the most romantic locations in the world.

For reservations and information please call (808) 886-1234, Ext. 54, or visit HiltonWaikoloaVillage.com
